Burt-Watts Completes Bazaar New Project

AUSTIN, TX, November 30 — Leading Central Texas general contracting firm, Burt-Watts Inc., recently completed a new headquarters space for Austin-based software innovators, Bazaarvoice. The company's new 50,800-square-foot headquarters will be located at 3600 North Capitol of Texas Highway in Austin, Texas and represents a significant expansion from the company's previous headquarters.

The team that managed the project includes:

- John Knowles, AIA, director of interiors, Davis RKP Architects
- John Aleshire, president, The Aleshire Company
- Ken Saunders, CFO, Bazaarvoice

"Bazaar Voice is one of Austin's leading-edge innovators and we enjoyed collaborating with them to create a facility that would support their ongoing expansion," said Tommy Burt, president and co-founder, Burt-Watts.

Innovators of the Software as a Service (SaaS) social commerce solutions concept, Bazaarvoice, have served more than 70 billion pieces of customer-generated content on more than 600 brand web sites like Best Buy, Costco, Dell, Macy's, Overstock, P&G, Panasonic, QVC and USAA in 36 countries. Founded in 2005, the company connects organizations to their influencers through a unique network that reaches hundreds of millions of consumers around the globe, enabling authentic customer-powered marketing.

Bazaarvoice's new space was designed to capture the company's high-energy culture and team, as well as support ongoing expansion plans. Burt-Watts completed this project in October.
